

4-H & Youth Development

Pearl Jones

Potter Co. Extension Agent – 4-H & Youth Development

Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service

Pearl.Jones@ag.tamu.edu

806-373-0713

Welcome to Potter County 4-H!!!

Potter County 4-H is a part of Texas 4-H, the largest youth development program in the state. There are a variety of clubs and projects for young people ages 5-18. Some of our most popular projects are fashion and interior design, food and nutrition, shooting sports, archery, robotics and STEM, community service, public speaking, photography, veterinary science, livestock, and many more. School students experienced the life cycle of a chicken through Potter Co. Egg to Chick—Hatching in the Classroom curriculum enrichment. Youth can participate year-round in as many projects as they want, each one giving them different opportunities and developing an assortment of skills. The backbone of the 4-H program are the adult volunteers. Each volunteer brings a unique skill set to the 4-H program and the youth benefit from their support. We rely on volunteers to lead programs and project areas so the 4-H members can develop quality skills and characteristics that will benefit them in the future.