The Goliad County Wildlife Management Association is a community-based organization that fosters collaboration, education, and support to landowners, livestock managers and wildlife enthusiasts interested in continuing a legacy of land stewardship in Goliad County. The greatest threat to wildlife in Texas (including Goliad County) is habitat loss; thus, landowners must work together to provide landscapes suitable for wildlife. Starting in 1993, the association has served as a conduit, disseminating information on best management practices for land and wildlife alike and we invite you to join!

Benefits to joining the Wildlife Management Association:

- Getting to know your neighbors and sharing support in achieving common goals
- Opportunities to work with and learn from wildlife & natural resource professionals through programs and field days
- Building a social network with neighbors who share your vision and desire to maintain wildlife, land values, and quality of life

The GCWMA Board of Directors works to provide membership with workshops, field days, demonstrations, and annual meetings every year to disseminate information on the latest in wildlife management techniques. We hold a banquet every year in late summer to provide members a venue for meeting with your neighbors, enjoying some great BBQ, and helping us raise funds for various programs to promote wildlife management and hunting heritage.

Program Highlights

Workshops & field days held annually to provide members with information on wildlife and habitat management.

Grassland Stewardship Program provides technical guidance and cost share funds for eligible practices to restore grasslands for quail and other grassland birds species.

The association has two sounder hog traps available for members to borrow, donations for trap use accepted.

GCWMA members can enroll in the TPWD Managed Lands Deer Program to receive antlerless permits for their properties. Please contact our TPWD Wildlife Biologist, Meagan Lesak at 361-576-0022, for more information.
