Weekly Summary

Compared to last week's market, the average prices of all weight classes of feeder steers and heifers ended mostly steady to firm. Some of the front-end classes of both feeder steers and heifers did witness a $2 to $3 gain but buyers were selective in their purchases. There is a widening gap between the plainer feeders and the better classes. Slaughter cows and bull prices continue to remain under pressure and again showed about a $3 loss.

Recent rains in the wheat growing areas should no doubt help feeder calf prices but the higher interest rates, fuel cost and heading into October with seasonal health problems could well dampen some of the bullishness.

COMMENTS

Another big run as the fall kicks off. The lightest end of the calves would be a few dollars cheaper than last week and the 450# and up would be a few dollars higher. Overall, the averages on packer cows and bulls would be 5 dollars cheaper than one week ago. Replacements would be very sporadic as the very best end of cows and heifers saw excellent demand. Plainer cows would face more resistance than previous weeks. We appreciate consignors and crew for another good sale. Pray for rain!!

State of the current market:

Steady to cheaper market todays on most classes of calves - Steer classes seemed however higher in several weights -

Nothing to brag about on the weigh market hanging close to last week's market price.

A nice raining days Sale which we are so thankful for!

See ya'll next time!
